

Phase 3: Protecting reserves

The &ldquo;Phase 3: Protecting reserves &ndash; managing sustainable vehicle access&rdquo; project is currently underway, building on previous work by South Coast Management Group & its Vehicle Working Group sub-committee to respond to the impacts of vehicle use in the coastal zone through a regional program of education and on-ground works.

The project will facilitate and implement site-specific on-ground works at strategic locations in five coastal local government areas. The Coastwest (201446) component will support land managers and the community to undertake site planning in an identified priority site or corridor of coastal reserve. Site-specific access management works may include access hardening, site definition, and rehabilitation as needed.
